

Volume two of Qualitative Research Nexus focuses on the role of qualitative researchers and their relationships within psychological studies.

This book is a result of the presentations, discussions, and collaborations of participants at the 2nd workshop on Qualitative Psychology in October 2001 in Blaubeuren, Germany that was organized by the Center for Qualitative Psychology.

As a result, problems as well as potentials that are inherent in researchers roles in qualitative investigations are drawn to attention. A model to describe different phases within the processes of research projects is used as an organizing framework for the articles in this book.

ISBN 3-9806975-3-3

Content

Introduction

1. Realism and the roles of the researcher in qualitative psychology
Joseph A. Maxwell

Application

2. Listening for voice and discourse: The role of the researcher in qualitative psychology
Tamara Beauboeuf

Exploration

3. The impact of Vipassana meditation on doing research
Leo Gürtler
4. Participants' expectations in research relationships
Mechthild Kiegelmann
5. The role of the researcher in action-oriented studies
Hannu Soini, Leena Kultalahti, Terhi Jokelainen and Marianne Tensing

Explication

6. Qualitative approaches in learning research: Learning diaries and the role of the researcher
Michaela Gläser-Zikuda

7. The role of the researcher in group-based dialogic introspection
Thomas Burkart

8. Roles of researchers in historical introspective psychology
Gerhard Kleining and Peter Mayer

9. Collective memory work: The informant as peer-researcher
Ulrike Behrens

10. "From the field - into the field – outside the field." Proximity and distance of the instrument researcher in half structured interviews
Bernd Reinhoffer

11. The researcher is the instrument
Stephan Marks and Heidi Mönlich-Marks

12. Qualitative content analysis – research instrument or mode of interpretation?
Philipp Mayring

Application

13. The significance of ethnic and national identity of female researchers in practice with young migrant women: Experiences of allochthonous and autochthonous researchers
Christine Riegel and Asiye Kaya

14. Research on interpersonal violence - a constant balancing act
Silke-Birgitta Gahleitner
15. The methodological complementariness of biograms, in-depth interviews, and discussion groups
Antonio Medina Rivilla, Tiberio Feliz Murias, M<sup>a</sup> Concepción Domínguez Garrido and Ramón Pérez Pérez
16. Biographic self-reflection as basis of the researcher's development
Antonio Medina Rivilla, M<sup>a</sup> Concepción Domínguez Garrido, Ramón Pérez Pérez and Tiberio Feliz Murias

Proceedings of workgroups and roundtables

Impressions
Leo Gürtler

Workgroup: The researcher as the instrument
Bernd Reinhoffer

Workgroup: An experiment demonstrating group-based dialogic introspection
Gerhard Kleining

Roundtable: Joint data analysis - qualitative content analysis in action
Philipp Mayring and Michaela Gläser-Zikuda

Roundtable: Ethics in qualitative research - not an issue?
Silke Gahleitner

Subject index
Author index
About the authors

ORDER

Please, bill me at my home address / institutional address

___ Expl. Kiegelmann, Mechthild (Ed.) (2002): The Role of the Researcher in Qualitative Psychology (ISBN 3-9806975-3-3)
227 pages, paperback à Euro 19,50

Euro _____

_____
First name, last name

_____
Institution

_____
Street

_____
Postal code, city

_____
Date

_____
Signature

Ingeborg Huber Verlag
Viktor-Renner-Str. 39
D - 72074 Tübingen

Phone and Fax: +49 (0)7071 88 51 47